A Thought From Mark...

One of the blogs I check in on regularly is written by a brother named Jim Martin and can be found at www.godhungry.org. Recently he posted some advice for people dealing with discouragement. This is part 2 continued from last week:

The following have been helpful to me:

1. Use your greatest resource which is prayer.
 2. Run from the devil and his schemes.
 3. Make a short list of the encouraging people in your life and begin calling these people regularly.
 4. Get a clean piece of paper and begin making a gratitude list.
 5. Read Scriptures that speak of God's love, care, and power.
 6. Choose to do good for others. There is something about serving others that in some way can help to take our minds off ourselves.
 7. Don't wait on things to get better before you take the positive, intentional steps you need to take. Far too many people passively wait for something to happen. We keep waiting for someone else to make a move. Waiting on a child to do better. Waiting on a spouse to change. Waiting to see if the drug treatment works. When one is discouraged, it is easy to become frozen, immobile, and passive. This is a dead-end street.
 8. Put into your mind things that are encouraging and helpful, while avoiding unnecessary discouraging situations. For example: During times of discouragement, there are certain kinds of people I know that I don't need to spend much time with. Such people can suck the joy out of most any situation. During such times, I don't need to spend a lot of time with people who gripe and complain. Instead, I need to put into my mind things that are helpful and encouraging. Read articles, listen to podcasts, and read books that in some way give you joy and encouragement.
 9. Talk to a godly counselor or a mature believer to whom you can confide. It can be very hard to bear discouragement alone. Pray about this and look for a way to make this happen.
 10. Keep your body fit. The temptation, when discouraged, can be to let your body go. Consequently, you overeat, get no exercise, and spend too much time in front of the television. Go for a walk or a bike ride. Can't leave the house? Stretch. Just do something besides sitting in a chair.
- Discouragement can be difficult. Which of these ten practices could you begin with?

The Apostles' Teaching

In Acts 2:42 we read that the Christians devoted themselves to the apostles' teaching. We know the things the apostles taught were from God (John 14:26), and our New Testament is composed of the apostles' teachings that God chose to preserve for us (2 Peter 3:15-16).

Since the apostles taught, and wrote, what they learned from the Holy Spirit, all Scripture has been given to us directly from God (2 Timothy 3:14). Because the Bible comes from God, its words are as alive and powerful as God Himself (Hebrews 4:12-13). The Scriptures teach us everything we need for life and godliness, and make us effective and productive in our knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ (2 Peter 1:3-15).

We know the gospel is the power of God to salvation (Romans 1:16). We cannot instill our own faith in people we are trying to reach, and while our conduct and example as Christians are important tools in sharing the gospel, they can only accomplish so much. True, obedient faith in the hearts of the lost can only come from hearing the Word of God (Romans 10:17). The Word is the seed God intended for us to plant in the hearts of the lost (Luke 8:11). But if we do not plant it, it will not grow. And if we do not know it, believe it, understand it and own it for ourselves, we will not be able to plant it in others.

To devote something means to give it up to some purpose or person. The Christians in Jerusalem gave themselves up to the study and practice of what they were being taught by the apostles. They put aside their selfish goals and pursuits in order to better understand and do the will of God. If we would devote a portion of our time and energy to the study of the Scriptures, both for our own edification as well as to be better prepared to teach it to others, the church today would be blessed with Spiritual revival and growth in new converts and restored members. Let us allow God to work His purpose through us, through the power of His Word!

Dennis

Prayer List

Ron Grizzard will have knee surgery tomorrow.

Ann Grimm is being treated for an infection and request prayers.

Jean VanSickle is now at Worthington recuperating.

Thomas Merideth was diagnosed with Crohn's disease last week. He will have an MRI on Wednesday in Columbus and they are currently working on dietary management strategies. Please keep Thomas in your prayers and he appreciates very much the cards and encouragement he's received so far.

Matthew Butterfield was baptized Tuesday evening by Jared Shipley. We rejoice with you over your decision!

Quips and Quotes

- It is not the greatness of our troubles, but the littleness of our spirit that causes so much sorrow and heartaches.
- God writes with a pen that never blots, speaks with a tongue that never slips, and acts with a hand that never fails.

"SAYING NO TO GOD"

You can say yes to God or you can say no to God; but if you say no, you must realize there is a high price to pay and much to lose. In this lesson we're going to explore the cost of rebelling against God's will.
